Gridiron Glory, which is made possible by presenting sponsor Highmark Blue Cross Blue Shield, is currently making its national debut at the History Center. But hurry – time expires on Jan. 6.

The 9,000 square foot exhibit features more than 200 football artifacts from the Pro Football Hall of Fame collection – some of which have never been seen outside of Canton, Ohio – plus exclusive videos from the vaults of NFL Films along with special sections on the Steelers and Western Pennsylvania’s Hall of Fame connections.

Visitors will experience an in-depth journey through 120 years of professional football, from its humble beginnings in Pittsburgh to its rise as one of the world’s most beloved sports.

Gridiron Glory highlights include:
• The 1892 Allegheny Athletic Association accounting ledger featuring Pudge Heffelfinger, known as “Pro Football’s Birth Certificate;”
• The Champions Gallery Theater, which includes a dramatic NFL Films video on a stunning 10-screen display highlighting the greatest moments in NFL history set against a backdrop of more than 20 game-worn jerseys from record-breaking performances;
• A section on the NFL’s greatest dynasties featuring objects from the most successful franchises in pro football history, including “Mean” Joe Greene’s battle-scarred helmet and Jack Lambert’s game-worn jersey from the Steelers’ Super Bowl teams;
• A special display recognizing all 46 Hall of Famers with Western Pa. connections, including artifacts from the “Cradle of Quarterbacks” and University of Pittsburgh legends Curtis Martin and Dan Marino;
• More than a dozen interactive activities where visitors can see how they stack up to some of football’s most imposing players; visitors can compare their bicep size with Cortex Kennedy, test their passing grip with Hall of Fame quarterback Jim Kelly, or measure up to a life-size mold of Jerome Bettis; and
• An interactive instant replay booth where visitors can decide whether the “ruling on the field” should stand or be overturned.

For Steelers fans, the Black ‘n Gold is well-represented throughout the Gridiron Glory exhibit, with dozens of artifacts and a special area dedicated to the six-time Super Bowl Champions. Highlights include:
• The game-used football from the greatest play in NFL history, the “Immaculate Reception,” that is on public display for the first time;
• Terry Bradshaw’s uniform from Super Bowl XIV, on loan from the Smithsonian Institution;
• Ernie Stautner’s No. 70 jersey, which remains the only retired number in Steelers history; and
• Items from the newest Hall of Fame Steelers, including Jack Butler’s jersey and Dermontti Dawson’s 1994 offensive lineman of the year trophy.

Time is winding down to see the Senator John Heinz History Center’s major exhibition, Gridiron Glory: The Best of the Pro Football Hall of Fame.
The Greatest Play in NFL History
The Immaculate Reception

Immaculate Reception Anniversary Event
Sat., Dec. 22 • Noon – 1:30 p.m.

The History Center will commemorate the play that changed Pittsburgh sports history with a special public event on Sat., Dec. 22, titled, “Immaculate Reception Memories.”

The event will include the screening of a new NFL Films documentary along with special appearances by members of the 1972 Steelers team, including Franco Harris, John “Frenchy” Fuqua, Andy Russell, Rocky Bleier, Mike Wagner, and more.

Also scheduled to appear are fans involved in the play, including Jim Baker, who owns the Immaculate Reception game ball currently on display in the Gridiron Glory exhibition, and Sharon Levosky, who helped to launch the name of the “Immaculate Reception” on Myron Cope’s TV broadcast.

This event is expected to sell out, and a limited number of tickets are available for purchase. Tickets are $40 general admission and $25 for History Center members. Tickets include admission to Gridiron Glory and all History Center exhibitions. To purchase tickets, visit www.showtix.com or call 1-888-71-TICKETS.

Sports Artifact: Immaculate Reception Ball

BY NED SCHANO, CO-DIRECTOR, WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA SPORTS MUSEUM

Things looked desperate. With just 22 seconds remaining in the Steelers’ 1972 AFC divisional game vs. the Oakland Raiders, the home team trailed 7-to-6 and faced an improbable fourth-down-and-10 from their own 40-yard line.

Playing in just their second playoff game in franchise history (the Steelers lost 21-0 to the Philadelphia Eagles in 1947), the team was hoping to shed its persona as the “lovable losers” acquired over the franchise’s first four decades.

West Mifflin native Jim Baker could hardly see the action from his seats in section 57 of Three Rivers Stadium as third-year quarterback Terry Bradshaw stepped up in the pocket and lofted a pass to running back John “Frenchy” Fuqua just as he collided with Raiders defensive back Jack Tatum.

As the ball popped backward toward the line of scrimmage, rookie running back Franco Harris scooped up the errant ball inches above the ground, shed a would-be Raiders tackler, and raced the length of the sideline for the go-ahead touchdown.

Officials delayed the game in an attempt to determine exactly what happened on the play. But amidst the euphoria, Baker saw an opportunity. He and his nephew Bobby Pavuchak raced down the Three Rivers Stadium steps and hopped onto the field with an impromptu mission: catch the ball after the extra point.

Hundreds of fans crowded the back of the endzone with stadium security attempting to maintain order as Steelers kicker Roy Gerela prepared to kick the extra point. Baker eluded security officials behind the goal post and successfully dove for the ball following the kick. Unsure exactly what to do next, he stuffed the ball under his shirt and ran as fast as he could out of the stadium with his nephew. As the city erupted in celebration following the Steelers first playoff win, Baker drove home to be with his wife and two sons, clutching his memento from the greatest play in NFL history.

For the past 40 years, Baker kept the ball in a special black-and-gold vault, taking it out only to show friends and family. But this fall, he loaned the ball to the History Center as part of the Gridiron Glory: The Best of the Pro Football Hall of Fame exhibit—the first time the ball has been on display to the public. Visitors can see the Immaculate Reception ball in the McGuinn Gallery through Jan. 6, along with the Three Rivers Stadium turf and Franco Harris’ game-worn Immaculate Reception shoes inside the Western Pennsylvania Sports Museum.

#Francoing Goes Viral

Attendees Enjoy Newest Exhibitions at Annual 1879 Founders’ Circle Dinner

More than 100 guests joined the History Center for the annual 1879 Founders’ Circle Dinner. Following remarks by American Alliance of Museums President Ford Bell, History Center President and CEO Andy Masich invited attendees to tour the museum’s newest exhibitions, Gridiron Glory and From Slavery to Freedom.

The event, graciously hosted by David and Wendy Barensfeld and the Compton Family, honors members of the Chairman’s Circle, Director’s Circle, Museum Circle, and special friends of the History Center. For more information about the 1879 Founders’ Circle, please contact Clara L. Pascoe at 412-454-6324 or clpascoe@heinzhistorycenter.org.

Members Enjoy the Best Exhibit Lineup in History

There’s never been a better time to become a History Center/Smithsonian member. Over the next year, we will feature the best exhibit lineup in history.

From our newest exhibition, From Slavery to Freedom, to upcoming exhibitions, 1968: The Year that Rocked America and The Civil War in Pennsylvania, members can take advantage of the best exhibit lineup in history. See pages 4 and 5 for more details.

Mark Your Calendars: Upcoming Events

15th Annual History Uncorked
Fri., March 8, 2013
Senator John Heinz History Center

Get ready for a groovy time at History Uncorked, Pittsburgh’s premier event for young professionals.

As one of the city’s most popular annual events, History Uncorked offers an opportunity to become involved with the History Center’s mission while mingling with up-and-coming entrepreneurs, connecting with colleagues, and building a broader professional network.

This year’s History Uncorked, chaired by Nathan Boxx of Fort Pitt Capital Group, will celebrate the History Center’s upcoming exhibition, 1968: The Year that Rocked America, with 1960s music and décor. Proceeds from the event benefit the programs and services of the History Center and Western Pennsylvania Sports Museum.

21st Annual History Makers Award Dinner
Thurs., April 4, 2013 • 6:30 p.m. • Black Tie Fairmont Pittsburgh

The History Makers Award Dinner honors men and women whose achievements, while rooted here in Western Pennsylvania, transcend geographic bounds. These individuals represent the commitment to excellence that has defined our community and profoundly contribute to the proud history and collective heritage of our region.

Proceeds from the History Makers Award Dinner, chaired by Donald J. Heberle, president of BNY Mellon of Pennsylvania and Daniel K. Fitzpatrick, president and CEO of Citizens Bank of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware, provide support for the History Center’s educational programs, innovative exhibitions, and collections.

Fourth Annual Bocce Tournament & Festival
Sat., Aug. 17, 2013
Senator John Heinz History Center

Come throw down for a worthy cause at the History Center’s Fourth Annual Bocce Tournament and Festival, chaired by Jack Mascaro of Mascaro Construction Co. Teams will showcase their bocce skills while visitors enjoy delicious Italian food, beverages, live entertainment, and more. Spectators can also try their hand playing bocce on two specially designed public courts.

Admission is free for all spectators. All sponsor proceeds benefit the Italian American Endowment Fund, which is dedicated to preserving the history and culture of Italian Americans in Western Pennsylvania.

10th Annual Celebrity Golf Tournament
Mon., Sept. 23, 2013
Allegeny Country Club

Save the date for the 10th Annual Celebrity Golf Tournament, presented by BNY Mellon, at the historic Allegheny Country Club in Sewickley. Each foursome will be matched with a local sports celebrity for a scramble-style tournament including team and individual prizes for the longest putt, longest drive, and closest to the hole. Test out your skills for a good cause. The tournament benefits the Western Pennsylvania Sports Museum.

For more information about these events, including sponsorship and tickets, please contact Mark Burnett at 412-454-6405 or mburnett@heinzhistorycenter.org.
New Exhibition Highlights African American History in Western Pennsylvania

More than 200 years of African American history are chronicled in the History Center’s new long-term exhibition, From Slavery to Freedom.

Presented by BNY Mellon and funded in part by a U.S. Department of Education grant, the long-term exhibit highlights the history of the anti-slavery movement, the Underground Railroad, and the impact of 19th century activism on the modern quest for civil and human rights in Pittsburgh.

Highlights include:

• Nearly 60 manumission, indenture, and freedom papers from the History Center’s Detre Library & Archives recently discovered by the Allegheny County Recorder of Deeds Office;

• A gourd fiddle and bow from the 1850s, on loan from the Smithsonian Institution, that was created by enslaved Africans in America;

• Three new life-like museum figures, including one of Martin Delany; a prominent Pittsburgh abolitionist and the highest ranking African American officer in the Union Army during the Civil War;

• Several 19th century paintings that depict everyday life for African slaves, including “Slaves Waiting for Sale,” by Eyre Crow; on loan from the Heinz Family Foundation; and

• Touch-screen interactives that bring to life Pittsburgh-area safe houses, such as John B. Vashon’s barbershop, the LeMoyné House, and the Monongahela House Hotel.

The exhibit is also supported by PPG Industries Foundation, the University of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Foundation, and the Double Eagle Foundation. In partnership with the exhibit, the History Center is developing a variety of public programs, educational materials, and publications with Carnegie Mellon University; the University of Pittsburgh; Pittsburgh Public Schools; the Afro-American Historical and Genealogical Society; the Art Institute of Pittsburgh; Pennsylvania Civil War 150, and nationally known scholars.

For more information about From Slavery to Freedom, please contact Samuel W. Black, director of the African American Program at the History Center, at 412-454-6391 or swblack@heinzhistorycenter.org.

Be There or Be Square

1968 Exhibit Opens February 2

Beginning Feb. 2, visitors can turn on, tune in, and drop out at the History Center as they experience a year that defined a generation.

The exciting new exhibition, 1968: The Year that Rocked America, chronicles the pivotal year in American history that saw the peak of the Vietnam War, the assassinations of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert F. Kennedy, riots at the Democratic National Convention, assertions of Black Power at the Olympic Games, and feminist demonstrations at the Miss America pageant. The year ended with images of Earth beamed back from space for the first time.

Created in partnership with the Minnesota Historical Society, this major traveling exhibit will feature state-of-the-art multimedia displays and evocative objects from this turning point for a generation coming of age and a nation at war.

Visitors can experience the sights, sounds, and music that helped to make 1968 one of our nation’s most explosive years – the musical “Hair” opened on Broadway, the hit TV show “Laugh-In” debuted while the original “Star Trek” series came to an end, and Dustin Hoffman’s “The Graduate” picked up Oscars.

Visitors can get up close to a Bell UHI “Huey” Helicopter, and view campaign memorabilia from the 1968 elections.

As part of the 1968: The Year that Rocked America exhibit, the History Center will display part of the original set and related items from “Mister Rogers’ Neighborhood,” which was broadcast nationally for the first time in 1968.

For exhibit sponsorship information, please contact Natalie Taylor at 412-454-6325 or ntaylor@heinzhistorycenter.org.

History Center Launches New Civil War Book

In partnership with Pennsylvania Civil War 150, the statewide initiative to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Civil War, the History Center recently launched a new book, “The Civil War in Pennsylvania: A Photographic History.” The 320-page book is available for $34.95 at the History Center’s Museum Shop or at www.heinzhistorycenter.org/store. It features a collection of rare and unpublished images that highlight Pennsylvania’s role on the battlefield and on the home front.

Other Pennsylvania Civil War 150 programs include:

• The History Center will open a new exhibition, The Civil War in Pennsylvania, on June 23, 2013 that will feature life-like museum figures, unpublished photographs, and encampments displaying Civil War life.

• In the summer of 2013, the History Center will release another new book, “The Civil War in Pennsylvania: The African American Experience,” featuring essays written by national experts on African American life during the Civil War.

• The History Center’s traveling exhibition, The Civil War in Pennsylvania, created in partnership with Pennsylvania Civil War 150, has already visited nearly a dozen History Center Affiliate Program sites and will visit another 15 sites in 2013. The exhibit features four life-like museum figures, plus a companion “Dog Jack,” along with artifacts, previously unseen photographs, and large museum panels describing Pennsylvania’s contributions to the Civil War. The Civil War in Pennsylvania traveling exhibit, which is presented by Peoples Natural Gas and supported by the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS), will travel to more than 40 Affiliate Program institutions over the next four years.

To learn more about upcoming Pennsylvania Civil War 150 exhibits, publications, and events related to the Civil War commemoration, visit www.heinzhistorycenter.org/civilwar or www.pacivilwar150.com.

Museum Conservation Center Set to Open in 2013

The History Center’s new Museum Conservation Center in the Dietrich Building will allow the museum’s 50,000 artifacts to be stored under one roof.

Conservation professionals with a variety of specialties will educate visitors on how to best care for and preserve antiques and family heirlooms. The Museum Conservation Center will also connect the public with conservators should their heirlooms require professional repair.

When the Museum Conservation Center opens in the summer of 2013, the History Center will be the first museum in the nation to provide affordable conservation services to the public. To learn more, please contact Sandra Smith at 412-454-6393 or ssasmith@heinzhistorycenter.org.
