A pioneer in journalism, Nellie Bly is best-known for her feat of traveling around the world in 72 days. Her truth-seeking led her to write newspaper stories that prompted positive change and reform on many social injustices of her era.